THE KEELY MOTOR.

Experiments on the Machine Now in Hoston.

Boston, Jan. 4.-Most of the famous Keely machinery or apparatus with which the inventor of the Keely motor hoped to some day startle the world is now in Boston at the home of T. B. Kinraid. Mr. Kinraid will try to a complish what Mr. Keely was trying to acomplish when death snatched him from his workshop. "I am not in the pay of the directors of the company," said Mr. Kinraid. "I am interested in that kind of investigation and I shall do all in my power to demonstrate within the year the merits of Mr. Keely's conception. We should know soon whether great things may be expect-od of it or not."

He would not say whether Mr. Keely disclosed the accret of his motor befor-dying or whether such a accret was con-tained in papers left by Mr. Keely.
